Historically, Lotus has used the SE nameplate to denote models with a higher output and more standard equipment, as well as when SE used to stand for 'Special Equipment' package, first introduced on the Type 14 Elite. This increased performance comes from a 4-cylinder twin-scroll turbocharged engine mated to an 8-speed DCT gearbox, producing 400bhp (40bhp more than the non-SE Emira), and 480Nm of torque- a 50Nm increase. This results in 0-62mph taking just 4.0 seconds, and a higher top speed of 180mph.
